Acquitted by His Reputed Wife,

Joseph II. Ja-obs, the young man who shot his reputed wife, Mrs. Martha Hullings, a former resident of Tionesta, on the 22d ult., at 37 Anderson street, Allegheny, an account of which was published in these columns at the time, was tried in the criminal court of Allegheny on the 16th inst. and acquitted. The jury, however, placed the costs on him. as the charge was felonious assault and battery, with intent to kill, Mrs. Hulings, in her testimony, protected her alleged husband as much as she could. She insisted that her name was Jacobs and denied ever having any quarrels with him while they lived together. She testified that she and Mrs. McCrory, the landlady of the house where they boarded, and their husbands were in the room when the shooting occurred. They spent some time chatting together, when Jacobs and Mr. McCrory went out to the street. On their return Jacobs asked Mrs. Hulings for a handkerchief and his revolver. She said it was in a dresser, and as he turned to get it she cried, "It's leaded! It's loaded!" At the same time she threw herself on the floor at his feet. Just then he shot. McCrory ordered Jacobs out of the room, and Mrs. Mc-Crory and Mrs. Hulings went up stairs to dress the gunshot wound in Mrs. Hulings' shoulder. Mrs. Hulings was positive that Jacobs did not mean to shoot her, and said that she threw herself at electing the spring millinery stock for his feet from fear of the revolver. Jacobs told the same story and stoutly maintained that he had no intention of shooting the woman. His testimony cashier in the clothing house of Goldstein was coroborated in detail by Mrs. Mc-Crory and her husband.
